The Best Flour on Earth

It is the family friend and the housewife's pride. Famous wherever used and quality is what made it famous. Don't be deceived by an attractive sack or a grocer's statement that another brand is "just as good" there is only one "Best" and that is JOHN R. A trial of one sack will prove every claim we make. Absolute satisfaction guaranteed.

HARRY MALLORY, U. S. A., receives orders to join his regiment which is to embark for the Philippines. The Overland Limited is the only train that will enable him to reach the coast in time to escape a court-martial. Having a little time to spare he persuades Majorie to elope with him and reserves two berths. They reach the train in time but haven't time to get married. "Little" Jimmy Wellington, who stands six-feet-two and weighs 350 in his stocking feet, guzzles too much, so his wife takes the overland for Reno, telling him that she goes to Paris for the year. He gets sore and takes the same train for the same place, and for the same purpose. The Reverend Doctor Temple, tiring of the monotony of Ypsilanti, elopes and takes the Overland through to the coast. There's another girl aboard—a former sweetheart of Mallory's. With this cargo, in charge of a worthy porter, they start. The happenings enroute are screamingly funny. Majorie, not married to Mallory, has her reputation at stake. Dr. Temple knows this but won't let anyone know that he is a preacher of the gospel. Wellington and his wife fail to meet because he's too busy pestering the men folks and she pulling cigars. Then the other girl pesters Majorie and Mallory with a bracelet she received from Mallory, and so everyone does something that had been better left undone and the porter must bear the brunt of all. A hold-up relieves the girl of the bracelet, and the arrival of a Mormon minister, when they get into Utah, frightens Temple into practicing his profession on the young couple. Then a cinder in Wellington's eye causes him to meet his wife, who relieves him of it, and they patch up their differences. With everything working smoothly we leave them to continue their journey.
